

SAKHILE EDMUND MNISI (31)

Producer and DJ

Q Where does your music inspiration come from?
My family, fiancée Sheree O'Brien and son Taylor, and God are my biggest inspirations.

Q What values from your childhood do you want to instil in your children?
I would like my children to always have respect and humility towards everyone they encounter in life, regardless of race, class and circumstances.

Q How do you blend your traditional culture with modern trends?
I am not very traditional, but I do understand and respect my culture. My son, being mixed race, will also learn about both his parents' cultures, but we will not force our traditions per se upon him.

Q How do you keep your mixes original?
I keep it clean and simple and make sure it touches people. My fans always say they never skip through my CD's and that they listen from the first track right through until the last track, which is a massive compliment!

Q What makes you a trendsetter?
I just do me! I go with my own flow, play by my own rules, mind my own business and do what makes me happy. In terms of style, I've never liked to wear what everyone else was wearing at the time. I've always loved fashion, dressing up and checking out upcoming international trends. The fact that I was chosen as an Adidas Originals ambassador is so awesome because their range suits my style, personality and the brand I am building to perfection.

Q What is the most important value you learnt from being a dad?
I have learned that love and protection are gifts that should be given, received and not taken for granted

Q Where is your favourite location to perform?
For me, local is always best! No one gets down like our home people do. I love hearing the fans scream my name and lifting me up to take pictures with me. I really just love the warmth.
